snow77	Team formation	#1
Home away from home ⭐⭐⭐☆ Image Joined: 2003/7/23 7:17 From B612 Posts: 829 ⦿ OFFLINE	To form a team to handle the work on addons, we are going to make a list of candidates chosen by ourselves according to the responsibility and dedication these people have shown to the XOOPS project. David is going to make a list of possible candidates from where to make the final election. Please David I remind you, do not at this stage contact anyone revealing any information of addons or tell them they are chosen ones. We are making the list ourselves (the mxo team) and discuss it in private here before establishing any contact with the people. Also it is clear that they will not be the ones building the site, they will be the ones that will manage and moderate the content once it is finished being built and is opened. This is to make a preliminary team formation, to elect them and inform them the way the repository will work so they can all be prepared for the opening.

The team structure can be as follows.

- 2 main general moderators: Ana (me) and David
...and those to be elected
- 3 moderators to take care of the modules area (moderating reviews, and making sure all the modules are in the correct place and have the appropriate descriptions filled in, also making sure the modules are updated)
- 2 moderators that take care of the theme's area.

(maybe we don't need that many people to start with, let's make first the list of people and analyze closely the functions this team will have)

Ok - Initial thoughts:

theme specific:
bassman
kris_fr

(unable to think of alternatives yet...)

module specific:
smdcom
akitson
christian (frxoops)

Module secondary:
Blueteen
Philou

Bassman & Kris - because of their experience with themes - it would make them sensible people to ask - and also with their good community standing

Smdcom & atkinson - they have some experience with modules on development, and SMD being a community leader, and atkinson with his module dev experience - gives them both good insites

Christian - mainly as he always seems to be an honest speaking person - and has helped recently in cleaning up some w.x.o elements (links etc) ... and also, to be honest, as I'd like to open it to a member of the French team, to show that we do hold them in high esteme.

The second choices because of their experience with modules, and again similar reasons to the above.

It's best to get some community members from other sites - to give more first hand input as to organisation of the repository - and to make any good changes and improvements they can handle.

And, as I've said earlier, to help boost ties with communities.
